Daily Programme.

From the Navigator.

This morning Queen Victoria is berthed quietly alongside the Pinto Cruise Terminal in Malta's capital city of Valletta. As we spend the morning alongside, the Grand Harbour can be admired from our seaward side. This harbour is one of Malta's major ports, its mouth faces the north east and is bounded by St Emos Point and a sheltered break water. Its' north west shore is formed by the Scebarras Peninsula, which is largely covered by Valletta. Later this afternoon we will depart our berth and proceed north through the breakwaters into the harbour waters where we will disembark our Pilot. Once clear we will set an easterly course as we start our transit across the Ionian Abyssal Plain.

Cunard Firsts.

Cunard has introduced a number of shipboard firsts over the years. In 1848 it originated the system of signal lights, now in general use on all ships, calling for a clear white light on the masthead; a green light on the starboard side and a red light on the port side. America, Niagara, Europa and Canada were the first ships to use this new system.

In the port of Valletta, Malta.

Arrival Time: 8.00am

All Aboard Time: 5.30pm

The George Cross island has always held a special place in the hearts of the British. Over the centuries its strategic position has invited invaders from all quarters of the compass and they have left everything from prehistoric temples and cart ruts through catacombs, palaces and churches to massive fortifications, all packed into a rocky, barren looking island smaller than the Isle of Wight. Valletta is Malta's lilliputian capital, built by the Knights of St John on a peninsula that's only 1 kilometre by 600m. Its founder decreed that it should be 'a city built by gentlemen for gentlemen', and it retains its sixteenth century elegance. It may be small, but it's packed full of sights; when UNESCO named Valletta a World Heritage Site, it described it as 'one of the most concentrated historic areas in the world'. The Renzo Piano–designed City Gate, Parliament Building and Opera House have changed the cityscape and galvanised it into life. These sights, along with Valletta's status as European Capital of Culture for 2018, have seen the city reborn, with new museums, restored golden-stone fortresses, and new hotels, bars and restaurants in converted sixteenth-century mansions. Valletta's outskirts are even worth a visit: take the beautiful ferry trip to the Three Cities and or visit the astounding prehistoric Hal Saflieni Hypogeum.

Health advice.

In order to prevent any incidences of viral gastroenteritis (diarrhoea and vomiting) on board, we would respectfully advise our guests to be careful with their personal hygiene, particularly hand washing during their time ashore. If eating and drinking ashore please look for an establishment that appears well maintained and clean and only consume food that has been freshly and thoroughly cooked. It is recommended that you take care when ordering salads which are often washed in local tap water and only drink water from unopened sealed bottles and without ice.

Venice motor launch service.

Cunard will be providing a regular dedicated motor launch service between Queen Victoria and the Cornoldi Pier. This is a short walk away (over 4 bridges, unsuitable for wheelchairs) from St Mark's Square. Tickets for this launch service can be purchased in advance on board by no later than Wednesday, 5 July. Please return the completed order form, to the drop box located outside the Tour Office on deck 1 in the Grand Lobby. Tickets are non refundable, nor transferable and must be shown in conjunction with your Guest ID card (ship card). The motor launches will run according to the schedule published in our Daily Programme on Friday, 7 July and Saturday, 8 July. This service will run from the pontoon at the Stazione Marittima where Queen Victoria will be docked to the Cornoldi Pier and back. Guests will need to be able to walk onto the pontoon and step onto the launch and down several steps unassisted. The distance from Queen Victoria to the pontoon is approximately 500 metres (6/7 minute walk). The water launch service is dedicated to day visitors. Due to insurance restrictions guests are not allowed to carry luggage on the water launches.

Climate control.

The temperature within your stateroom/suite may be adjusted to suit your preferences by setting your thermostat. To keep the stateroom/suite temperature constant we recommend keeping your balcony door closed whenever possible.
